Recipient, Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters

Terence Hardy Waite became known to the world in 1987 when he was captured in Beirut while attempting to secure the release of hostages. He was held hostage for almost five years.

A veteran church official, Mr. Waite trained in theology and Christian ethics, and worked for the Church of England as a consultant before traveling abroad in the late sixties. In the latter capacity, he became involved in negotiations in Tehran, Libya, and Beirut.

In recent years, he has spoken around the world on the lessons he has learned from a lifetime in the international arena and, more recently, from his experiences as a hostage in Beirut. His autobiography, Taken on Trust, tells the story of survival as a hostage. He also is founding chairman of Y Care International, a project of the worldwide YMCA and is researching and writing a new book on issues of creativity, loneliness, and solitude, which will be released in 1997.

Presidential Medallion

An exceptional honor, the Presidential Medallion is bestowed by Virginia Commonwealth University and is awarded in recognition of outstanding contribution by a member of the university community. The award is meant to recognize extraordinary achievement in the world of learning and dedication to Virginia Commonwealth University as shown by numerous outstanding contributions to several areas of university life. Among Dr. DePillars' most significant accomplishments during his tenure at VCU was introducing the VCU Jazz Series to Richmond, establishing Richmond's Jazz Festival, and initiating VCU's decentralized fund-raising model. Under his deanship, the School of the Arts also became the second largest art school in the country, and his public service earned the School of the Arts national recognition as an exemplary urban art school by the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges. Dr. DePillars has served as a consultant and exhibited in museums and galleries throughout the United States. His art has been reproduced extensively and is represented in nearly 100 private and public collections.

In July 1995, Dr. DePillars joined Chicago State University as Executive Vice President.

Dr. Goldman served on the faculty at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill before joining Virginia Commonwealth University in 1974 as Vice Chairman of the Department of Medicine. Dr. Goldman became Chairman of the Division of Hematology/Oncology in 1982 and Director of the Massey Cancer Center in 1988. While at VCU, Dr. Goldman contributed to the expansion of the Department of Internal Medicine and the initiation of the bone marrow transplant program. He played an important role in the development of basic cancer research programs, particularly in the area of experimental therapeutics, and established two major National Institutes of Health programs to support postdoctoral training. His work at the Massey Cancer Center led to its recognition as a premier interdisciplinary national cancer research center. Dr. Goldman is internationally known for his research on the membrane transport of anticancer drugs and the actions of folic acid antagonists. He has published more than 100 papers and has received more than 25 years of peer-reviewed funding from NCI, including two consecutive seven-year Outstanding Investigator Grants.

In November 1995, Dr. Goldman joined the Albert Einstein College of Medicine as Professor of Medicine and Molecular Pharmacology and Director of the Einstein Cancer Research Institute.

RICHARD R. LOWER

Recipient, Presidential Medallion

Dr. Richard R. Lower is known internationally for his pioneering work leading to successful experimental and clinical heart transplantation. He earned his undergraduate degree from Amherst College and his M.D. from Cornell University.

Dr. Lower was recruited from Stanford University to chair the Division of Thoracic and Cardiac Surgery at the Medical College of Virginia, where he served until his retirement in January 1989. It was at Stanford in the late 1950s that Dr. Lower, working in Dr. Norman Shumway's laboratory, helped to develop the basic process of heart removal and transplantation on which all subsequent procedures were based. Early in his career at MCV, Dr. Christian Barnard studied under Dr. Lower; Dr. Barnard went on to perform the world's first human heart transplant. By 1985, Virginia Commonwealth University's cardiac transplant program had become the second largest in the world, with Stanford's being the largest.

Among Dr. Lower's research focuses were patient survival, surgical techniques, and the pathology of the transplanted heart. He has published more than 100 scientific papers throughout his career. In addition to transplantation, Dr. Lower became known internationally for performing one of the first cardiac bypass procedures.

The University Medallion

In 1984, Virginia Commonwealth University commissioned R. Daniel Booton to strike a university medallion to be worn by the president on ceremonial occasions. The University Medallion is hand-carved and designed in 24-karat gold-leafed bronze, created as a perpetual symbol of Virginia Commonwealth University.

The Medallion uses Egyptian hieroglyphics and mythological and real images to represent the University's contributions in teaching, research and service.

The Egyptian building on the Medical College of Virginia campus was selected as the centerpiece because of its significance as a historical and architectural landmark. The oldest medical building in the South, it is considered the best example of Egyptian Revival architecture in the United States. The building is flanked on the left by Isis, goddess of medicine, the arts, the home and the community. On the right is Toth, shown in his guise as the Ibis scribe of the gods. He is the master of writing and god of wisdom, numbers, measures and time.

Above the building is the glyph for "A to Z," which represents knowledge and the role of the university. Isis offers the Ankh, the symbol of life, while Toth, holding the scroll of wisdom, blesses Virginia Commonwealth University.

The central grouping is surrounded by Nut, goddess of the sky, and Geb, god of the earth. The recumbent god forms mountains and valleys with its contorted body and thereby represents the earth sciences. Nut arches over the earth and symbolizes the cosmos and physical sciences. The Eye of Ra, the sun, travels across her back and is shown at its zenith, representing Virginia Commonwealth University's rise to greatness.

RECIPIENTS OF DEGREES

Due to rigid time requirements, this program must be printed before the final list of degree candidates and final graduation honors status can be determined. The exclusion of the name of a student is not to be taken as indication of official status as a non-graduate, nor is the inclusion of the name of a student to be taken as certification of official status as a graduate.

(The student's major subject is stated in Parentheses following the name.)

THE HONOR SOCIETY OF PHI KAPPA PHI

Phi Kappa Phi is a national honor society founded in 1897. The Virginia Commonwealth University Chapter was established in 1977 and is the only university-wide honor society at VCU. The primary objectives of this society are to promote the pursuit of excellence in all fields of higher education and to recognize outstanding achievement by students, faculty and others through election to membership, and through various awards for distinguished achievement.

Phi Kappa Phi typifies the honor society ideal, characteristic of American higher education, in that it exists for the dual purpose of recognizing and honoring those students who attain high scholastic achievements, and encouraging those students who are capable of doing so.

Phi Kappa Phi is unique that it recognizes scholarship in all academic disciplines, rather than restricting its membership to a specific and limited field. It extends its interest and eligibility across the entire range of subject matter of the modern university, and by so doing, calls attention to the fact that the world needs understanding far beyond that of specialists who restrict their outlook to a particular specialty.

ACADEMIC COSTUME

Academic costume worn today at American college exercises goes back in its essential features to the Middle Ages. The oldest universities of northern Europe, such as Paris and Oxford, grew out of church schools, and both faculty and students were regarded in the Middle Ages as a part of the clergy. They wore clerical costumes, largely borrowed from the monastic dress of that day not just on special occasions, but as their regular costume.

The head covering of the academic costume developed from the skull cap worn by the clergy in cold weather to protect their tonsured heads. In the universities, the skull cap acquired a point on top, which evolved into a tassel. The bonnet with tassel is still worn by degree holders of European universities. In America, it has been replaced by the familiar mortar board, which still retains the medieval tassel.

The hood (the medieval caputium) was originally a covering worn over the head in bad weather, otherwise dropped on the shoulders as the monk's cowl. At first it was worn by faculty and students alike, but in the early sixteenth century it was restricted to graduates, thus it became the mark of a degree holder. Today, each college has its distinctive hood lining by which its graduates may be recognized in academic processions. Anyone with a degree from Virginia Commonwealth University may wear a hood showing a black chevron on gold background.

The gown worn today is the medieval robe and seems to have been borrowed from the habit of the Benedictine monks. In the Middle Ages, undergraduates, bachelors and masters could be distinguished by the simplicity or intricacy of their gowns. The doctor's gown was often furred—this survives today in the ornamentation found on the doctoral gown. Usually the gown is black, but some colleges have colored gowns.

The wide velvet borders extending down the front of the doctoral gown, the velvet bars on the sleeves, and the borders of most hoods are colored according to the scholarly field of the wearer. Some of these are:

THE UNIVERSITY

Richmond is the home of Virginia Commonwealth University, the Commonwealth's largest public, urban, research and doctoral institution. VCU has shared the city's heritage since the Medical College of Virginia was founded in 1838 as the medical department of Hampden-Sydney College. VCU's Academic Campus began in 1917 as the Richmond School of Social Work and Public Health, and in 1939 its name was changed to Richmond Professional Institute. By an act of the General Assembly, Richmond Professional Institute and the Medical College of Virginia merged in 1968 to form VCU.

VCU's 10 schools and one college offer 141 degree programs and serve more than 21,000 students. In addition to traditional educational settings on the university's academic and medical campuses, VCU students are afforded the city, the state and the globe for their classrooms and laboratories, allowing them to solve problems and share the energy of a contemporary society. Flexible class scheduling and the use of computer and telecommunications technology, which affords instruction at convenient sites, allows students the opportunity to further their education while continuing to pursue career growth.

VCU's Academic Campus is in the Fan District, a restored turn-of-the-century neighborhood of town homes, parks, restaurants and the world-famous Monument Avenue. A leader in the adaptive preservation of its buildings, the university boasts 53 buildings that are historic landmarks or lie within a historic district.

The Medical College of Virginia Campus is situated in Court End, a historic neighborhood that includes the State Capitol and museums set against a backdrop of modern buildings that form Virginia's government complex. Just blocks from the MCV Campus is a major financial and corporate nucleus, where eight of metropolitan Richmond's 13 Fortune 500 companies are located.

As a public research university located near the state's government center and a major corporate center, VCU is uniquely positioned to form innovative partnerships with industry and government. In fact, VCU is among the top 70 universities in the country in sponsored research, generating more than $87 million in support each year. In addition, VCU received more than $25 million last year from individuals, foundations and industry. Much of the research made possible by these gifts and grants will result in new products, new medicines and perhaps whole new industries.

VCU is the largest employer in the Richmond area, with a workforce of more than 13,000 faculty and staff. The university's budget annually contributes many millions of dollars to the local economy.

But VCU does more than infuse capital and revenue into the local and state economies. The university pursues an academic, research and service mission that benefits the citizens of Virginia and the nation in such areas as health care, education and economic development. VCU students and staff address major concerns ranging from alcoholism and the quality of instruction in urban public schools to rural health care and public safety. In addition, VCU has initiated several successful health-care improvement and business development projects in Russia and developing countries.

VCU's Medical College of Virginia Campus includes Medical College of Virginia Hospitals, a vital urban health-care complex. The hospital, which serves as a major referral center, is nationally and internationally recognized for its innovation and excellence in patient care. MCVH was cited as one of the best medical facilities in the United States and Canada in the 1995 edition of The Best Hospitals in America. The hospital is the largest acute-care center in the state, and is designated as a Level 1 trauma center.

Research meshes with professional training and patient care in the hospitals' departments and 85 outpatient clinics. MCV's Massey Cancer Center is one of the 56 cancer centers in the country specially designated by the National Institutes of Health. MCVH's neurologists work in one of the top five head-trauma units in the country, and the hospital's nationally recognized neonatal intensive care unit supports prematurely born infants.

In expanding VCU's focus on biomedical research, the University has joined the surrounding localities, the state and the business community in developing the Virginia Biotechnology Research Park, which opened its first laboratories and offices in late 1995. With the biological revolution making a strong impact on global markets and biotechnology expected to be a $150 billion industry by the year 2000, VCU is actively involved in positioning Virginia as a leader in the field.

The University also has joined forces with Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University to build VCU's School of Engineering, which will deliver innovative engineering programs by building on the existing strengths of Virginia Tech's engineering program and VCU's medical, science and research programs. The first class of engineering students will enter VCU in 1996.

With its wealth of resources and strategic planning for its future, VCU continues to fulfill its mission of teaching, research and public service guided by the values of excellence, access and diversity.
